

LIGHT COMPANY SUBMITS TERMS

Willing to Illuminate City's Streets for $60,400 a Year.

PRESENT COST IS $36,000

COUNCIL TO SETTLE MATTER MONDAY EVENING.

In a communication to Mayor John S. Bransford the Utah Light & Railway company yesterday submitted a definite proposition for street lighting. Although the exact terms of the proposed contract are not announced, they are understood to be as follows:

The installation of 700 arc lamps of a new pattern at $72 each per year. Total cost, $50,400.

Four hundred incandescent boulevard lights at $25 each per year. Total cost, $10,000.

Total cost for lighting the city per year, $60,400.

The present cost of lighting the city is $36,000, and this includes, all told, only 574 lights of which about 450 are arcs of the old variety and the remainder boulevard lights such as are used on Brigham street.

The proposal submitted by the company is considered a distinct achievement for the special lighting committee of the council, consisting of Councilmen Mulvey, Tuddenham and Holley, who worked together with Mayor Bransford in the solution of the difficult problem of giving the people of Salt Lake a better system of street lighting. According to the plans submitted, the cost of the lights which it is proposed to install, unless it is changed between now and Monday next, will be $12,000 cheaper than if the same lights were ordered under the rates now existing. The committee will meet today to consider the offer of the company and to complete its report, which will be submitted to the council Monday evening next.

Present System Inadequate.

It is universally acknowledged that the present system is entirely inadequate. For several years, notwithstanding the growth of the city, there has been no appreciable increase in the number of street lights and some of the most populous sections are entirely without such service. The plan which will be adopted has already been explained. The boulevards will be lighted with 60-candle power incandescent lights set on poles at intervals of the curb at frequent intervals and in other sections the present arc light system will be abolished and arcs of a new and improved pattern hung suspended from the center of the street at an elevation of about twenty feet will be substituted, thus doing away with the objectionable poles now in use.

In order to furnish enough energy to carry out this comprehensive system the Utah Light & Railway company has agreed to expend $100,000 in addition to its contemplated expenditures in improving its power plant. This stipulation is contained in the proposition submitted yesterday and means that instead of being able to furnish only a portion of the current required for arc lights as at present the company will be able to supply them up to the standard. The company admits that the arc now in use are far from standard requirements. This is not only because they are antiquated but also because the company has been unable to furnish enough current to keep them going properly.

Welsbach Forced Issue.

An interesting feature of the controversy has been the attitude of the Welsbach Street Lighting company, which offered some months ago to install 900 incandescent gas lights at $32 per year each, seeing that their only hope in entering the local field was to make a lower bid, this concern finally came down to $25 a year per light and then was, it is understood, overbid by the Utah Light & Railway company on its proposition to furnish electric boulevard lamps of similar candle power.

This increase in the lighting system, if adopted, will be material, felt in the outlying districts. With the exception of Brigham street all the boulevards are now lighted by arcs. According to the plan the arcs taken from the boulevards will be used in other sections and the 60-candle power incandescent lamps substituted for them. In addition to this there will be an increase of about 250 in the number of arc lamps now in use.

PRETTY NIGHTINGALE OF THE SLUMS TURNS HER BACK UPON STAGE CAREER

CAPTAIN VIOLET MCCOY.

Her pretty face and remarkable voice are attracting attention on the streets of Salt Lake.

Turning her back upon offers of lucrative positions upon the stage, Captain Violet McCoy of the Salt Lake branch of the Volunteers of America is devoting all of her talents to the rescue work which she commenced eight years ago on leaving school at Evanston, Ill. Although girlish in form and manner, Captain McCoy is married and the mother of two pretty babies.

For the past six weeks this remarkable young woman has attracted much attention in the streets of Salt Lake. Her voice is full of expression and sweetness, and as she sings at street corners large crowds gather, drawn by heart-rending notes of the "nightingale of the slums." Then the beauty of the girlish face holds those who have been attracted by the singing.

Discriminating musicians, who have understood the possibilities of Mrs. McCoy's voice, if cultivated, have urged her to give up her work with the Volunteers and devote her talents to other fields, but she merely shakes her head.

Devoted to Her Work.

"This is my work," she said yesterday. "I am by cultivating my voice I could do greater good. I would be glad to take vocal lessons. But I cannot give up my work to improve my voice. While in Minneapolis I was induced to go to an instructor to have my voice trained. The teacher told me that I could not possibly make headway unless I gave up my out-of-door singings. That was because I sometimes caught cold while in the streets. But rather than abandon my work as a Volunteer, I gave up the singing lessons."

About the same time a theatrical manager, who had heard me sing, offered me $50 a week and all my expenses if I would go on the stage. I told him that I could not think of such a proposition. He answered that I could do greater good upon the stage than upon the streets, and that it was wrong for me to ruin my voice at street corners. Here in Salt Lake I have had persons tell me to make other use of my voice.

SNOW FLURRIES AND RAIN

Weather Bureau Doesn't Come Up to Promises—Dr. Hyatt Will Straighten Things Out.

The weather yesterday was all awry, and the weather predictions were just as much so. For a week, more or less, the weather bureau has been telling the people every day that the next day will be fair, but the next day always turns out to be miserable and wretched. Yesterday was the worst dose Salt Lake has received thus far this season in the way of slush. The precipitation was 23 inch, compared with 17 inch on the previous day. The temperature, however, was not severe, the lowest being 30 and the highest 35, as recorded by the government's instruments.

The prediction for last night and today was snow flurries. Old inhabitants prophesy that there will be a sharp, cold snap.

Dr. Hyatt is again on the ground and will deal out the weather cards in the pack. Dr. Hyatt knows precisely what the people want and he can always bring it. During Dr. Hyatt's absence on his tour of inspection of a number of stations in Utah, Observer Church acted for him.

The meteorological report issued yesterday reads:

Maximum temperature, 35 degrees; minimum temperature, 30 degrees; mean temperature, 33 degrees, which is 3 degrees below normal; accumulated deficiency of temperature since the first of the month, 3 degrees; accumulated excess of temperature since January 1, 123 degrees; relative humidity, 80.

Total precipitation from 6 p. m. to 6 p. m., .23 inches; accumulated deficiency of precipitation since the first of the month, 51 inches; accumulated excess of precipitation since January 1, .236 inches.

DOCTORS FAIL TO AGREE IN CASE

Distressing Illness That Afflicts Clay Family Is Puzzling to Physicians.

CONSULTATION IS CALLED

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION EXPRESSED AS TO NATURE.

The terrible malady which has caused the deaths of three of the children of William H. Clay of 42 Somerby avenue and the serious illness of the other four, the story of which was published in yesterday's Herald, is exciting the interest of the medical fraternity in Salt Lake. The preponderance of opinion is that the disease with which they have all been afflicted is scarlet fever, but its malignant type puzzles the physicians, who agree that in virulence the disease in this family surpasses anything of its kind that they have met with in their experience.

A consultation of physicians in the case resulted in a difference of opinion. Dr. W. F. Beer, who has made a specialty of the diseases of children, has differed from Drs. A. S. Bower, A. C. Behle and T. C. Gibson in his diagnosis of the cases. Dr. Beer gives it as his opinion that the children are suffering from scarlet fever and diphtheria combined and recommends a treatment for diphtheria. The other doctors contend that the disease is scarlet fever and nothing else, though it is of a type that is more malignant than they have ever before encountered. The peculiar feature of the case is that Dr. Beer is as firm in his belief that both diseases exist as the others are that it is only scarlet fever. In support of his contention Dr. Beer said:

Diphtheria and Scarlet Fever Combined.

"I feel sure that the children that I examined are suffering both from scarlet fever and diphtheria, a complication that is not infrequent among children. I have recommended diphtheria treatment, which I believe is being given them. The illness of the children is extremely critical, and the case is a very sad one."

"As a result of my examination," said Dr. Behle, "I am led to believe that the Clay children are suffering only from scarlet fever. I found no indications of diphtheria. The type of scarlet fever with which they are afflicted is extremely malignant. I do not know that in my experience I have ever come across scarlet fever in such a virulent form."

Antitoxin Is Administered.

Dr. A. S. Bower was even more positive that the disease is only scarlet fever. "I am sure," said Dr. Bower, "that the correct diagnosis. I have been told that Dr. Beer said there was diphtheria in the case, but I am at a loss to understand how he came to such a conclusion. To be sure we administered antitoxin, but the effect of this remedy is as potent in treating scarlet fever cases as it is in diphtheria. I have seen many cases of the disease where it is prescribed."

Dr. Gibson is the attending physician in the case. He said that he had seen many cases of scarlet fever originally, and then called a consultation of the other three physicians and they all agreed that the disease was malignant. "The case is scarlet fever," said Dr. Gibson. "There were no indications of diphtheria. The disease was malignant, but no diphtheria treatment has been administered. Dr. Beer was mistaken when he diagnosed the case as a complication of the two."

All four children are critically ill, although in the opinion of the physicians one of them has passed the danger point and will recover. There is still hope for the other three, though they are by no means out of danger.

LIMITED TRAIN HITS WAGON

Two Men Severely Injured at Salt Lake Route Crossing at Ninth South.

Two men, riding into Salt Lake in a wagon, attempted to cross the Salt Lake Route's tracks at Fourth West and Ninth South streets at 12:35 p. m. yesterday in front of the approaching Los Angeles limited train. The powerful locomotive of the passenger train smashed the vehicle and threw the two occupants to the ground.

They were picked up and hurried to the Latter-day Saints' hospital, where it was found that they were severely but not seriously hurt.

The men were Mr. Gold and Oscar Runstad. Gold sustained a broken arm and Runstad a broken leg.

At the hospital last night it was said that both of the men were doing well and that neither of them was in any danger.

The injured men assert that they did not know the Los Angeles limited train was approaching when they attempted to pass the crossing. There is a curve after the Salt Lake Route's tracks at Fourth West and Ninth South streets, and it is believed that the men were unable to see the approaching train until it was too late to escape being run down.

PLAN TO FIGHT DISEASE.

Druggists Will Battle Stomach Troubles in Salt Lake.

The increase of stomach troubles in Salt Lake has led F. C. Schramm to make effective measures to combat the disease. He has the local agency for Mi-o-na stomach tablets, and in order to induce people suffering with weak stomach or indigestion to use the remedy, offers to supply it with the distinct understanding that money will be refunded in every case where it does not cure.

Mi-o-na is not a mere digestive, but an absolute strengthener and builder up of the whole digestive tract. If you suffer with headaches, giddiness, palpitation, bad taste in the mouth, nervousness, coated tongue, distress after eating, use Mi-o-na and see how quickly these symptoms of a weak stomach will disappear.

The remedy strengthens the muscular walls of the stomach and increases the flow of gastric juices so that nourishment is extracted from the food and the refuse is expelled without the aid of purgative or laxative medicines.

Strengthen the stomach and make it do its own housework by using Mi-o-na. Do not waste and nurse it along by digestive tablets that do no lasting good. Make a complete cure of your stomach troubles and replace weakness with strength by using Mi-o-na.

Remember that F. C. Schramm gives a guarantee to refund the money unless it cures. He takes all the risk, and there is no danger of your losing anything except indigestion when you buy a 50-cent box of Mi-o-na. Corner First South and Main streets, "Where the Cars Stop."

RAISE FINE POINT ON POLICE COURT

Prosecution Fails to Connect Accused Conductor With Offense Charged.

DEFENDANT TAKES STAND

THIS ERROR STANDS IN WAY OF HIS DISMISSAL.

A knotty point of law brought to an end yesterday afternoon in the police court in the proceedings against Samuel McClister, a Rio Grande Western freight conductor, who was arraigned on a charge of blocking a crossing and delaying a Poplar Grove car for sixteen minutes.

Assistant City Attorney Daly had two witnesses to tell of the blocking of the Rio Grande Western crossing. They were Conductor Drake and Motorman A. J. Cliff of the Poplar Grove car. They told of having been delayed for sixteen minutes while a Rio Grande Western freight train was passing.

Attorney Irvine, representing McClister, then placed the defendant upon the stand.

"What is your name?" he asked.

McClister gave his name.

"What is your occupation?"

McClister replied that he was a freight conductor on the Rio Grande Western.

Suddenly Lawyer Irvine ordered McClister to step from the witness stand.

"I have overlooked something," he said, turning to Judge Diehl. "I move that the defendant be discharged from the case, because nothing has been brought out in the testimony of the prosecution that in any way connects my client with the offense charged."

Daily Seizes Opportunity.

Assistant City Attorney Daly objected to the dismissal of the case. "What Mr. Irvine says is true," he said. "Witnesses for the prosecution have failed to connect McClister with the offense charged, but I proposed to establish his connection by his own testimony. As Mr. Irvine has placed him upon the stand, I have the right to cross-examine him."

"Your cross-examination would be limited," said Mr. Irvine, "to today."

"You have asked his name and occupation," replied Mr. Daly. "That is sufficient for my purpose."

Judge Diehl decided to defer his ruling upon Mr. Irvine's motion until today.

"Had you asked for the dismissal of the case before placing Mr. McClister upon the stand, I would have been compelled to discharge the defendant. Mr. Daly failed to establish his case. But now that Mr. McClister has been upon the stand, we must consider the right of the prosecution to examine the witness."

"If my motion is denied," said Mr. Irvine, "I would still object to Mr. Daly's cross-examination of the defendant."

"We will take up this matter tomorrow, after we have made an examination into the facts of the case," said Judge Diehl.

E. H. Burns, the Oregon Short Line switchman, who was obstructing a crossing and delaying Jordan Bridge cars, was found guilty yesterday and will be sentenced on Saturday.

SUES FOR $5,000.—"Jimmie" Gibson, the veteran doorman at the Salt Lake theatre, yesterday began suit against George G. Doyle & Co. for $5,000 damages for personal injuries. The accident on which the suit is brought is the cause of Mr. Gibson's present disability. It occurred Feb. 9, 1907, while he was employed in the drug bottling department of the Z. C. M. I. The Doyle company had been repairing the plumbing in the room where he worked, and a workman left a heavy wrench on top of a ladder which he was using. The wrench fell and struck Gibson on the head, resulting in paralysis.

STEALS HER OWN STOVE.

Kitchen Mystery Is Solved in Justice Smith's Court.

Mrs. Jenny McConnell, who caused the arrest of Mrs. Mollie Stone, alleging that Mrs. Stone had stolen a cook stove, appeared before Justice of the Peace Dana T. Smith yesterday morning to press the charge.

Mrs. McConnell stated that when she moved into her present abode she found a stove in the kitchen, which she at once commenced to use. Some time later Mrs. Stone appeared and carried off the stove, upturning all of Mrs.

McConnell's domestic arrangements.

Mrs. Stone informed Judge Smith that she formerly occupied the McConnell house, and that in going away she had left the stove behind. While the removal of the stove may have interfered with Mrs. McConnell's culinary arrangements, she felt that she was strictly within her rights.

The case was dismissed.

S. D. Evans, Undertaker and embalmer, removed to new location, 48 South State street.
